

The Dark Forces, the Consciousness Streams and the Shift

By Katie Gallanti

Answering here a question a personal friend sent me in an email today – he was saying: "Didn't we overcome the dark forces already? Isn't it over? Aren't we already in the 4th dimension?" - This is common thinking in some circles so I felt useful to post my reply ... and then added a few more things- taking the opportunity to clarify my approach to my work/planetary work at this time. This may be one of the most dense posts I have made in a while...but I feel a meaningful one. It helped me crystallize some of my thoughts.

So here goes my reply ...

On the dark forces/over topic -- - It's not that simple. The people whose vibration is beyond a certain threshold are experiencing the upper consciousness streams of planetary energy and in these places indeed, things are good, experiences are smooth, etc - although even at this level people are still experiencing initiations. In fact my observation is that the many of the older souls right now are the ones that are experiencing the tougher and most painful initiations, as they are being challenged to go even higher and develop strength, in order to be able to be steady anchors and leaders for mass consciousness shifts that are coming later. Someone has to go first and hold a steady light. And some of the older Souls have volunteered for that task. But before they get to do that, they first have to master being able to hold stable light under great pressure. Hence the initiations.

For the planet as a whole, my observation is that possessions and astral contamination still run rampant, even now. And this partly because the "powers that were" have set up the conditions via which people are easily contaminated (toxic food, toxic music, pornography, alcohol, mind control of all kinds, etc...and even spirituality that denies that the dark exist - the "only be positive" new age version of spirituality), which make this kind of contamination very easy.

Little digression here --- Drugs and alcohol make even the ones with the highest souls vulnerable to infiltration. There is a reason alcohol is legal and readily available, as alcohol intoxication creates doorways in the energy field - even one heavy drinking session is enough to damage the aura. Excess alcohol is therefore a dark side gate way and its everywhere, unfortunately. Think about how much domestic violence and general mayhem happens under the influence... and how many lives are ruined by alcohol. There is a reason for that, as it allows lower astral forces to take a ride in our field, sometimes really influencing our behavior. Always clear and repair your field after drinking. ...same goes for wide use of pornography, which allows entity cording in the second chakra. End of digression. Back to the planet and the dark forces and why we are not yet done.

This year - 2012/2013 - I have been more busy than in any other year removing huge entities that the powers that were have been bringing in from God knows where into our reality. These were beings I had even seen before, not on our astral plane -from some other place/dimension. Some of these seemed to be coming in from outside of our time. As in, powers that were may be resurrecting ancient entities, from dark times of glory past, much like what they are doing with the DNA of serial killers. They have been using mass ritual to bring these in... see Olympics and various staged events that engage mass consciousness. I have been removing the ones that have come to my attention with my team, as they come in.

So, as we can see, we are not done with the dark forces. Far from it, they are here and well, still doing their thing and even cranking up their game. Do I think we will overcome this and reclaim this planet? Absolutely. Do I think its a done deal and that we can just go chill at the beach now. No. This is not an opponent to be under-estimated. The politico side of this beast in many ways is the smallest of our problems, compared to the black magicians behind the scenes and their workings. As they are highly skilled, highly manipulative, use powerful esoteric technology and know human consciousness and its weaknesses very well.

By the way, several of the people that I consider "authentic" have been seeing that the timeline for this shift has shifted (nice play on words there ;- ) lol) . Seems we have created some extra time in which to get things done. Another twenty years or so. My councils confirm this. However know that the collective timeline is constantly changing. We do something that shifts things, they do something to counteract it and vice versa. Its like a chess game. So there is no resting on laurels here. The time to act is always right now. As what is true today is not always true tomorrow. As the collective energy is constantly being influenced from multiple angles. By the light forces, by the dark forces, but also by changes in the solar galactic field. Reality is very changeable right now and very fluid. But within that fluidity some of the high consciousness streams are becoming very solid and stable. Therefore continuing to anchor the high consciousness streams is an important aspect for us to focus on right now.

Also...shift to next dimension - this is a concept that was put out a few decades ago and it's somewhat inaccurate. It was a new and difficult concept to communicate at the time it came out, so I feel it was oversimplified, just so we could grasp it. The truth is the Earth is not a one dimensional reality to begin with. Many of the dimensional experiences of Earth are already here and accessible and many Souls are already energetically "parked" in the upper levels of the consciousness streams. My Soul has been able to access 12D consciousness since 2004. And then a couple years ago I realized there was another 12 dimensions still. And then another 12. Accessing high consciousness realities and having high soul vibrations however is not the end of the story. We need to then embody that Soul consciousness and bring it into the day to day of life as an incarnated being. So that every cell of our being radiates that consciousness. So that our mind and thoughts are attuned to the higher mind. And so that we can live from a heart centered space moment to moment, embodying the Soul's energy and operating from that level in real life, all the time. Which is an ongoing process. With huge opportunities for learning. And sometimes challenges.

So, individually, people can shift and reach/hold very high levels of consciousness here on Earth. And the current energies, which are highly activating, facilitate that. However in terms of the mass consciousness, we are heading in the right direction, but not there yet 100%. But we will be in time. And, just so we are clear, the goal at the mass consciousness level is to get the collective energy of humanity out of the 3D/4D consciousness streams (and here I am talking about frequencies that we can hold steadily when inside a body) and possibly higher than that, so we can shift the overall energy atmosphere of the Earth plane to a place where the dark forces can't breathe the oxygen.

Once our collective vibration reaches a certain level, they can no longer exist here. As they will have no anchor. They need the human interface to anchor. Hence the bloodlines and the obsession with genetics. They need the human/human hybrid body suit to play here, because they cannot operate here directly. They need an interface. And that interface requires vibrational compatibility. When the collective frequencies go beyond a certain range, that interface compatibility ceases to exist. The humans will be vibrating out of their zone. And the energetic hijacking ends right there. Which is why they are so busy keeping everybody focused on the low vibrations, placing all out focus on the lower levels of the first three chakras; first chakra (fear/security), second chakra (distorted sexuality) and third chakra (distorted power).

And, as I see it, the work to do in order to get to this place is twofold.

1 - On the one hand we aim to raise personal vibration as sky high as possible - meditation and soul work here is key. You cannot raise your consciousness beyond a certain threshold without meditation. And here I am not talking of "sitting in the lotus position" passive meditation, but consciously directed meditation, in which we reach upwards towards our original Soul consciousness, higher dimensional aspects and Source, and bring them into our being and body, so that we can be energetically changed. When we do this out field changes, our DNA activates and we expand. Through practicing this regularly, we gradually lock steadily with the high consciousness streams. And if we keep going we help stabilize those stream for all, not just for ourselves. And we may even seed/create new ones.

2 - On the other hand it is also paramount that we dismantle the work of the dark forces, both on the 3D level, via exposure of the agenda. And energetically, on the 4D/5D leave, by cleansing this plane of the energy workings of the dark magicians and the beings that work through them. This work includes cleaning out the entities that they keep bringing here, out of both people and the Earth plane as a whole.

I have been busy on all of these fronts for the past eighteen years. In the past year or so I have been much more busy doing the "spiritual warfare" part of this work privately on the inner planes and less in the public world, as there are plenty of "exposing warriors" already and who are doing a great job, while not as many doing the inner planes part, tackling the larger entities head on. So I decided to focus my attention there. I also feel that, after I have passed on what I know, which I plan on doing soon, I will retire from this work. It is time. (Not from all my work, just this entity removal part). As I am now moving into a new stage of my work - in fact I am receiving daily information about vibrational techniques at the moment, that focus more on creating the strong immune system that in fighting the virus, so to speak. A new "awareness" I gained after six weeks of relentless psychic attack from the strongest entities I have ever encountered, last May June. A very intense and not fun experience, but very productive as far as gaining new understanding. Although very sad still for some of the ripple effects that this caused in my personal life - big losses here.... But, I it is my firm belief that is something was not supposed to be lost it will return. And if not, it was mean to dissolve.

Also in closing, a few observations - one of the vulnerabilities of the more spiritually orientated people is the denial of the dark side, which then can also lead to the opening to trickster energies posing as light. And to not counteracting or becoming an obstacle to the counteracting the dark agenda. But there is a big vulnerability with the ones that are more "warrior" orientated also. And that is denying or under-estimating the essential component of the connection to Source/Primary Creator (we would call it God if the word had not been so tainted by many distortions) .... Warriorship outside of a connection with Source/Primary Creator/Love eventually ends up chasing its own tail and burning itself out. It works as an exposing tool, but it has its limitations. Many warriors, over time, become angry, depressed and/or despondent, as they get swamped by the darkness that they see. After a while there is a risk of seeing only the problems and the evil ones, but despair of solutions. This in the long run can create depression, less effectiveness and also lowers vibrations, making people vulnerable to illness and emotional distress and even astral pollution. So a strong connection to Source and the faith that that brings are essential. The exposing warrior's work is very valuable. And it needs to be balanced in a high voltage connection to Source and the solution that reside in the Source Mind and Universal Mind.

In general, it is essential to have a personal experience of one's higher aspects and of Source. As when one has a personal experience of Love that is eternal, one's faith and strength increase and solidify. Also Source vibrations are essential part of the solution. As it is only through activating and using our higher aspects and Soul and Source bodies that we can work energetically on planetary issues and on the removal the bigger energies. At times it can take that much voltage to create a shift. And when doing astral warfare, it sometimes can take that much light to shield.

As a multidimensional beings, plugged into Source/Primary Creator consciousness, and that know how to shift planetary situations energetically and that knows how to hold a field so strong that no dark force can penetrate it, we hold a lot of power. Not just for oneself, but for others and for humanity as whole. But this can only be obtained when we remember and reconnect to the Source. But this HAS to be a personal experience. As it is only by experiencing this kind of connection, that one "gets it" about why it is essential. Myself telling you this, in some ways, is meaningless. Which is why I am now focusing some of my time in creating some tools that allow for that experience directly. As I have been rambling on about this for years, but I know that it does not sink in all the way for people without direct experience.

The solution is also something that can only occur when we become fiercely love based. Use your power outside of love and you become what you fight. Make your own ego the source of your power and you will begin to drop vibrationally like a big stone in a pond and you will corrupt. Spiritual ego, and ego in general, unfortunately, is another major doorway through which the energy field corrupts and allows access. If you get seduced and operate from ego, before you know it, you are working for the other side. So be mindful of how you direct your will and always work on being a pure vehicle for Source energy.

You can affirm this right now, if you like. "I am a conduit for Source energy. I am a truth and love warrior in service to Source/Primary Creator. I hold space for powerful energies of Love that clear the planet in an instant. I am divinely guided in all I do. I surrender my ego and allow the purest energies of Primary Creator to work through me. I am aligned with Love Based Power, now and always. I am 100% protected by the Love of Source and I ask for assistance and guidance in being and staying clear at all times. And so it is."

And as far as the anger goes - understandable anger, as if you look at the world without filter, it is easy to get upset - use your anger as a tool for transformation. Use your anger and transform it into focus. Use your anger as a power source for your Source Aligned Will. Command your multidimensionality into being. Invoke the activation of your Source Self, which is a real and potent energetic body, so that you may anchor the Source frequencies steadily into your being. As a fully activated Source Body cannot be penetrated.

Be a fierce transformer. Become one with the power that created all the Universes through an act of Love. Re-embrace your commitment of service to Primary Creator and Humanity and become a conduit of Sacred Power. The more people reconnect to the Source, the quicker this clean up process will be. Because ultimately, personal journey of frequency raising aside, this is what we are here to do...to be the clean up crew. And to clean up well we need the power hose ;- ) lol ...and that comes from fully connecting to the expanded being-ness that we are when we tap into and merge with the Infinity that is the Source energy.

Hope this clarifies some...

May you walk in powerful Source beauty ;-) x x

Much love

Katie Gallanti

Copyright 2013 Katie Gallanti. <http://cosmicperspectives.blogspot.com> <http://reclaimingthelight.blogspot.com> . Please include author's name and websites when reposting. And preferably also a direct link to this blog post. Thank you x x x